SUMMARY

Newly-minted full-stack web developer with a background in Anthropology looking to translate my experience with evidence-based insight about human behavior into designing more intuitive experiences online. In leveraging qualitative research about why people behave the way that they do, I hope to forward a human-centered approach with an aim towards simplicity and putting the user front and center. All that is to say, I'm passionate about bridging gaps in communication and eager to employ critical thinking when emergent problems arise.
